

Cashlock

One of the best thought out security products Boon Edam BV have in their range is actually one of the least noticeable ones. The Cashlock, opening either to the left or the right, looks like a perfectly normal hinged door. Yet behind this seemingly simple door lies a sophisticated security system, taking up less than one square metre of floor space. The Cashlock is probably the most compact security door in the world.

The Cashlock warrants maximum security of areas prone to burglary and while primarily used in areas in which cash-points have been installed, it is also used in areas requiring similar levels of security, such as computer rooms, safes and personnel entrances of 24-hour filling stations. The door has been specifically designed to allow only one authorised person through at a time, thus preventing intruders from following anyone in.

The Cashlock security concept is simple yet exceptionally effective. An authorised person opens the door with a key or card and then enters a "one-person cell". The authorised person can only then continue to walk into the secure area once the door is completely closed.

There are various ways in which the door can be used to optimise the user's safety. Our advisors will gladly examine the possibilities with you upon request.
